(4) If in accordance with established trade union practice the majority of a group of employees who belong to a craft by reason of which they are distinguishable from the employees as a whole, are separately organized into a trade union pertaining to the craft, such trade union may elect or appoint its officers or other persons as bargaining representatives on behalf of the employees belonging to that craft and where any group claims and is entitled to the rights conferred by this subregulation, the employees comprising the craft shall not be entitled to vote for any of the purposes of collective bargaining with that employer, except when the collective bargaining is in respect only of the craft to which they belong, nor shall they in any manner be taken into account in the computation of a majority in respect of any matter regarding which they are not entitled to vote.

(5) Two or more trade unions may, by agreement, join in electing bargaining representatives on terms consistent with these regulations.

6. When bargaining representatives have been elected or appointed, application may be made to the Board by or on behalf of such representatives for their certification as the bargaining representatives of the employees affected.

7. Upon the application the Board shall by an examination of records, by a vote or otherwise, satisfy itself that an election or appointment of bargaining representatives was regularly and properly made, and in the case of a trade union, that the trade union acted with the authority of the majority of the employees affected as prescribed by subregulation 2 of regulation 5, and that the unit of employees concerned is one which is appropriate for collective bargaining, and if the Board is not so satisfied, it shall reject the application.

8.—(1) Where the Board is satisfied that the bargaining representatives have been duly elected or appointed, it shall certify them as bargaining representatives and shall specify the unit of employees on whose behalf the representatives so certified are authorized to act, and a collective agreement negotiated by such representatives shall be binding on every employee in the specified unit of employees.

(2) When bargaining representatives have been certified by the Board, the Board shall notify the applicants and the employer concerned of the certification.

9.—(1) At any time after the expiry of ten months of the term of a collective agreement, whether entered into before or after the effective date of these regulations, the employees affected may elect new bargaining representatives in the manner provided in regulation 5 and application may be made to the Board by or on behalf of the bargaining representatives for their certification.

(2) Upon receipt of the application the Board shall deal with it as in the case of an initial application for certification under the regulations.

(3) If on the application the Board certifies new bargaining representatives, they shall be substituted for the previous bargaining representatives of the employees affected as a party to the agreement in question, and they may give notice of the termination thereof as provided for in the agreement or under these regulations.

NEGOTIATION OF COLLECTIVE AGREEMENT

10.—(1) When bargaining representatives have been certified under these regulations they may give the employer concerned, or the employer concerned may give the bargaining representatives, 10 clear days' notice requiring that he or they, as the case may be, enter into negotiations with a view to the completion of a collective agreement.

(2) The parties shall negotiate in good faith with one another and make every reasonable effort to conclude a collective agreement.

(3) At the request of the bargaining representatives they may be accompanied during the negotiations by officers or agents of the trade union or employees' organization concerned.

(4) Every party to a collective agreement and every employee upon whom a collective agreement is made binding by these regulations shall do everything he is, by the collective agreement, required to do and shall abstain from doing anything he is, by the collective agreement, required not to do.

11. If negotiations for a collective agreement have continued for 30 days and either party to the negotiations believes that an agreement will not be completed in a reasonable time, it may so advise the Board indicating the difficulties encountered and may ask the Board to intervene with a view to the completion of an agreement.

12.—(1) Upon receipt of advice under regulation 11, the Board shall refer the matter to the Minister, who shall, within 3 days instruct a conciliation officer to confer with the parties and attempt to effect a collective agreement.

(2) A conciliation officer who has been instructed to confer with the parties under subregulation 1 of this regulation, shall, within 14 days of receiving his instructions, or within such longer period as the Minister may allow, report to the Minister setting out in full,—

- (a) the matters, if any, on which the parties cannot agree and his recommendations with regard thereto;
- (b) the terms, if any, upon which the parties have agreed; and
- (c) whether, in his view, an agreement might be facilitated by appointment of a Conciliation Board.

13.—(1) If a conciliation officer who has been instructed to confer with the parties recommends the appointment of a Conciliation Board, the Minister shall forthwith appoint a Conciliation Board consisting of 3 members appointed by the Minister after consultation with the parties as required by regulation 25.

(2) A Conciliation Board appointed under this regulation shall, upon its appointment, endeavour to effect an agreement between the parties on the matters on which they have not agreed and, in any event, shall report the result of its endeavours and its findings and recommendations to the Minister within 14 days of the appointment of the chairman thereof, or within such longer period as may be agreed upon by the parties or as may be allowed by the Minister.

14. If the report of a Conciliation Board to the Minister shows that the Conciliation Board has been unable to effect an agreement between the parties, the Minister shall cause a copy thereof to be sent forthwith to the parties and to the Board, and he may publish it in such manner as he thinks fit.

DURATION AND RENEWAL OF AGREEMENTS

15. Every collective agreement, whether made before or after the effective date of these regulations, shall be deemed to run for a period of not less than one year from its operative date and shall not be capable of cancellation by the parties within that period without the consent of the Board, and when any collective agreement is expressed to run for more than one year, it shall contain or be deemed to contain a provision for the termination thereof at any time after one year from its operative date on 2 months' notice by either party thereto.

16.—(1) Either party to a collective agreement may, on 10 clear days' notice, require the other party to enter into negotiations for the renewal of the agreement within the period of 2 months prior to the expiry date, and both parties shall thereupon enter into the negotiations in good faith and make every reasonable effort to secure such a renewal.

(2) Where either party to a collective agreement has required the other, under subregulation 1, to enter into negotiations for the renewal of the agreement, regulations 11, 12, 13 and 14 shall apply to the negotiations for the renewal of the agreement as in the case of negotiations for a collective agreement.

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

17. Where an employee alleges that there has been a misinterpretation or a violation of a collective agreement, the employee shall submit the matter for consideration and final settlement in accordance with the procedure established by the collective agreement or the procedure established by the Board under regulation 18, and the employee and his employer shall do such things as are required of them by the procedure and such things as are required of them by the terms of the settlement.

18.—(1) Every collective agreement made after these regulations come into force shall contain a provision establishing a procedure for final settlement, without stoppage of work, on the application of either party, of differences concerning its interpretation or violation.

(2) Where a collective agreement does not provide an appropriate procedure for consideration and settlement of disputes concerning its interpretation or violation, the Board shall, upon application, by order, establish an appropriate procedure.

UNFAIR PRACTICES

19.—(1) No employer shall dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of a trade union or employees' organization or contribute financial or other support to it, but an employer may, notwithstanding the foregoing, permit an employee or representative of a trade union or an employees' organization to confer with him during working hours or to attend to the business of the organization or union during working hours without deduction of time so occupied in the computation of the time worked for the employer and without deduction of wages in respect thereof.

but nothing in these regulations shall be interpreted to affect, otherwise than as expressly stated, the right of an employer to suspend, transfer, lay off, or discharge employees for appropriate and sufficient cause.

20.—(1) No person shall, with a view to compelling or influencing a person to join a trade union or employees' organization, use coercion or intimidation of any kind, but this subregulation shall not be construed to prohibit the inclusion of any provision in a collective agreement.

(2) Except with the consent of the employer, no trade union or employees' organization, and no person authorized by the trade union or employees' organization to act on its behalf, shall attempt, at the employee's place of employment during his working hours, to persuade an employee to join the trade union or employees' organization.

(3) No trade union or employees' organization and no person acting on its behalf shall support, encourage, condone or engage in a slow-down or other activity designed to restrict or limit production, but this provision shall not be interpreted to limit a trade union's legal right to strike and a thing required by a provision in a collective agreement for the safety or health of the employees shall be deemed not to be a slow-down or designed to restrict or limit production.

(4) No trade union or employees' organization, and no person acting on its behalf, shall participate in, or in any way interfere with, the formation or administration of an employers' organization.

STRIKES AND LOCK-OUTS

14 days have elapsed since the Conciliation Board reported to the Minister.

(2) Where an application has been made under these regulations for the certification of bargaining representatives, the employer of the employees affected shall not declare or cause a lock-out of the employees until an attempt has been made to effect a collective agreement under regulations 11 and 12, and 14 days have elapsed since the Conciliation Board reported to the Minister.

(3) No employer who is a party to a collective agreement shall declare or cause a lock-out and no employee bound thereby shall go on strike during the term of the collective agreement.

(4) Where a dispute has arisen by reason of a change in the existing terms of employment proposed by the employer, the employer shall not, without the consent of the employees affected, make such change effective until a period of 2 months has elapsed from the date when the employer notified the employees of the proposed change.

(5) Nothing in these regulations shall be interpreted to prohibit the suspension or discontinuance of an industry or of the working of any persons therein for a cause not constituting a lock-out or a strike.
